

ABSTRACT

A driver for a voice coil motor in a disk drive includes a sensor that provides a sense current by sensing a coil current in the voice coil motor, a comparator that provides an error current by determining a difference between a command current and the sense current, an 5 integrator that provides an integrated error current by integrating the error current, and an amplifier that provides the coil current by amplifying the integrated error current.